Architecture:

The house was built in a very plain fashion with high peaked eaves. The front porch is the only decorative portion of the house with detailed trim (Fig 2). The second floor veranda also features some elements with detail. The porch is original; however, the floor boards have been replaced over the years because of weathering. A small addition has been added in the past 6 years to the rear of the home (Fig 1). The windows also contain an element of design with the bricks being laid vertical over top of the window (Fig 3). The addition consists of an extension of the living room, providing more light into the room. The chimney on the side of the house has had the bricks taken off and been covered in large cement blocks. The house sits on an original fieldstone foundation.

Historical

This home was owned by Tom Brittain, a local. However, shortly after being built, the Scarlett family bought it. The Scarlett family was from Ireland originally. Mary A. Scarlett and her father John Scarlett came from Cauan, Ireland in 1866. It was in Waverley where John Scarlett remarried to Tom Brittain's daughter, Matilda. John Scarlett bought the house in the year 1900; however, Matilda had passed away already. Once the house was in the Scarlett possession, it became known as "Saints Rest". "Saints Rest" acted as a place for immigrants from Ireland who knew of the Scarlett's and "Saint Rest" to come and stay while they prepared their own homes in the area surrounding Waverley.
